TRADE-AT-HOME DINNER PROJECT

Retail Merchants Committee of Chamber of Commerce Will Meet Tonight to Discuss Plan.

DATE SET FOR NOVEMBER 17

Indiana Retail Merchants Association Maps Out Comprehensive Program to be Followed

The retail merchants committee of the Rush County Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight at eight o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce headquarters to consider the proposal of the Indiana Retail Merchants association for an "Indiana Trade-at-Home-Day" here Tuesday, November 17.

The Indiana association began its campaign for this unusual day before the election, but little could be accomplished until after the election. Now that the election has passed, it is felt that commercial organizations all over Indiana will take up the idea readily and push forward the plans rapidly.

The retail merchants committee will determine tonight whether the "trade-at-home" day shall be observed here. If the committee concludes that it shall, plans will be formulated quickly because very little time is left.

The Indiana Retail Merchants association has mapped out a comprehensive program to be followed. The day for preliminary organization was even set, but the organizers did not figure on the election then. When the day rolled around they found men so engrossed in politics that they could not devote any attention to it. However, an organization has been perfected in twenty-four Indiana towns already to observe the "Indiana-Trade-at-Home" day.

If the committee tonight decides to hold the special dinner, the Indiana organization has figured out a definite program of organization which can be followed out with ease. It is desired that the dinners be served at the same hour all over Indiana, if possible, six-thirty, in the evening. One of the important features of the dinner is that the menu shall be of all Indiana made products. This is in line with the national organization boosting things made in the United States.

An effort will made to enlist the interest of every one in the dinner. This will be an event of far-reaching importance to Rushville, not only to the business men but to every other resident of the city. If the people will enlist under the trade-at-home banner and fight along that line it will mean a much bigger and better city within a remarkably short space of time.

40 COUNTIES BECOME WET

New Home Rule Liquor Amendment Repeals Option Law.

(By United Press.)
Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 5.—Forty Ohio counties that were "dry" became automatically "wet" today with returns complete enough to show that the home rule liquor amendment carried in Tuesday's voting. The Rose county option law is repealed by the new law.
It is estimated that 2,000 saloons will open in the new territory.

SHERMAN BEATS SULLIVAN

Republican Candidate Has Plurality of Near 15,000.

(By United Press.)
Chicago, Nov. 5.—Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman, Republican, has been re-elected by a plurality over Roger C. Sullivan, Democrat, of about 15,000, nearly complete unofficial returns showed today. With complete returns from 96 of the 102 counties in Illinois and partial returns from five other counties, the vote stood: Sherman 376,117; Sullivan 360,689; Robins, Progressive 193,062.

ASSISTANT FIRE MARSHAL HERE

Said to be Investigating Daniels Incendiary Fires and Failures to Obey Orders

CONCERNING SOME CHANGES

Paul G. White, an assistant in the state fire marshal's office, was in the city today making some investigations pertaining to the fire marshal's office. Among the things coming to his attention was the two fires at the home of Allen Daniels, which were believed to have been incendiary in origin. Just what the assistant fire marshal learned is not known as he gave out no information.

Reports are expected in a few days from the office in Indianapolis ordering some of the places in the business district cleaned, as he was shown around the city by Fire Chief Easley. Easley has ordered some changes but the property owners pay no attention to him. The orders from the fire marshal's office will no doubt be obeyed.

COURT CASES TO BE PUSHED NOW

Judge Megee Calls Docket and Will Hurry Suits Will M. Sparks is Interested in.

HE TAKES OFFICE JANUARY 1

After a several weeks' vacation caused by the campaign the circuit court was again open this morning and Judge Megee promises to push things from now on until the end of the term. The docket was called this morning and the court calendar will be made up for the rest of this term. The November term starts the third Monday in this month.

Judge Megee intends arranging the court calendar so as to try as many of the cases in which Judge Sparks is interested so they will be out of the way when Judge Sparks takes his office Jan. 1. In this way Judge Megee will save the county money because there will not be any special judge.

The case of Blanche Wolverton against Clayton Wolverton, for support, was dismissed this morning by the plaintiff. The account suit of John Parsons against Ira Bullard was dismissed by the plaintiff and the costs paid.

Miss Beulah Meredith has been seriously sick with quinsy at her home in north Harrison street but her condition today was much improved.

GRAY IS ELECTED BY 3,405 VOTES

His Plurality in Sixth District is Cut Down by 4,435 Over Two Years Ago, However.

CARRIES HALF OF COUNTIES

P. J. Lynch Runs Over 5,000 Ahead of Progressive Candidate, Showing Gain of 3,799.

Finly Gray was elected to congress from this district by a plurality of 3,405 over P. J. Lynch. Lynch ran over five thousand votes ahead of Elbert Russell the Progressive candidate. The official vote of the Sixth District shows that Gray's plurality was cut 4,435 votes over that of two years ago when he defeated William Risk, Republican candidate, by a plurality of 8,340. The loss of almost five thousand votes was a sad disappointment to Gray and his followers as it shows the steady trend towards the Republican party.

Elbert Russell, the Bull Moose candidate, was considered a stronger candidate than Jensen of two years ago, yet he did not make as good a showing in the district as was made two years ago. Russell carried only one county, Wayne, and that by a close margin. Two years ago Finly Gray carried every county in the district except Wayne. This year Gray lost Rush, Union and Henry and barely carried Fayette county.

The loss in Gray's plurality about represents the gain in the Republican vote, while the Bull Moose vote did not show a great falling off. Lynch's vote over that of Risk, of two years ago, showed a gain of 3,799. The great gain of the Republican strength in the district was a great joy to Republican leaders and it was believed that two more years would see the end of Finly Gray in congress. This vote in every county in the district showed a loss over two years ago while the Republican candidate made substantial gains. Even in Rush county an example of how Gray lost can be seen. Two years ago Gray carried Rush county by a plurality of 473. At the election Tuesday this was reduced to nothing and Lynch had the plurality by nine.

The complete vote of the district is as follows:

	Gray	Lynch	Russell
Wayne	3,269	2,954	3,767
Fayette	1,634	1,510	759
Union	705	762	213
Franklin	1,939	1,378	328
Henry	2,769	2,910	1,272
Rush	2,235	2,244	865
Hancock	2,371	1,104	1,038
Shelby	3,366	2,048	1,272
Totals	18,315	14,910	9,360
Gray's plurality	3,405

GRAND JURY IN SESSION

Investigating Slugging of an Election
Sheriff Tuesday.

The grand jury was in session a short time this afternoon. Among the witnesses examined was Walter May. May is alleged to have struck Woodford Cassady on the night of the election. Cassady was an election sheriff and challenged May's right to vote. This provoked May and he is alleged to have threatened Cassady and later carried it out by hitting Cassady.

THEIR ECLIPSE MORE APPARENT

Late Returns Show Progressives Are Hopeless in the Discard Through United States.

MAY BE FIFTH IN NEW YORK

Candidate For Governor Gets Little Over 50,000 Votes, Trailing Behind Governor Sulzer.

(By United Press.)
New York, Nov. 5.—While late and complete returns today emphasized the sweep of the Republican victories in various states in cutting the Democratic majority in the house from 141 to 19 the complete eclipse of the Progressives also became more apparent.

If the claims of the Socialists prove to be true the Progressives in New York have dropped from the position of the third party to the fifth. The Socialists succeeded in electing a congressman in New York in Meyer London, of the Twelfth district, where the Progressives failed. Frederick Davenport, Progressive, polled only 52,792 votes for governor, running far behind William Sulzer, who trailed behind Glynn and Whitman. Charles Edward Russell, Socialist candidate for governor in 1912, polled 56,917 votes. Gustav A. Strebel was the candidate this year, and if he has run as well as did Russell, and Socialist vote exceeds that of the progressives. Socialists claim their vote this year will total 75,000, which would establish them well ahead of the progressives.

Although Gaylord and Berger, the Socialist candidates for congress in Wisconsin were defeated after a close race, Socialists believe the election of London clearly indicates their increasing strength as they have now succeeded in electing congressmen in widely separated sections of the country, Berger having served a term before his defeat two years ago.

The senatorial fights in Nevada, Kansas and North Dakota were still in doubt early today, but it is certain that both the senate and house will be controlled by the Democrats. In the fight upon the "Bosses," the result was a draw so far as Pennsylvania and Illinois are concerned. Boies Penrose was returned to the senate from Pennsylvania, while the late returns show that Roger Sullivan was defeated in Illinois by Senator Sherman.

Pennsylvania voters made a distinction between Penrose and the rest of the Republican ticket and had the Democrats and Progressives united upon one candidate against him, it is believed he might have been defeated. Governor-elect Brambaugh, Republican, has a majority of 139,041 over Vance McCormick, who had the support of the Democrats and Progressives. Pinchot and Palmer, Penrose's two opponents, however, have a majority of 14,940 over him. Colonel Roosevelt wanted the Democrats to withdraw Palmer and support Pinchot, but they refused.

The lead of Governor-elect Whitman over Governor Glynn has gradually increased with late returns. It is now certain that Glynn did not carry a single county outside Greater New York, and Whitman's lead will reach about 131,000. It now appears however, that the landslide failed to carry one Republican candidate on the state ticket into office. He is Emory A. Chase, candidate for the court of appeals bench. It now appears that Chase was beaten by Justice Samuel Seabury.

To the declaration of Mayor Mit-

SUIT TO FORECLOSE LIEN

Willard D. Root Demands $2,300 of Lawrence and Mary Root.

Willard D. Root filed suit this afternoon against Lawrence M. Root and Mary Root to foreclose a vendors lien, demanding $2,300. It is alleged that on February 8, 1914 Lawrence Root purchased six and one-half acres of land from Sallie Foster paying $2,100. The money was borrowed at the Rush county National bank with Willard Amos as surety. It is alleged that in July Amos demanded to be released from the note and that Willard Root paid the note. It is alleged that Lawrence and Mary Root still owe him and he asks a foreclosure of the lien demanding $2,300. Pohn H. Kipinger represents the plaintiff.

NOBLE TOWNSHIP WILL CELEBRATE

Republicans Will Celebrate Tonight
John O. Williams Who Was Elected County Treasurer.

ALSO FOR TOWNSHIP TICKET

The Republicans of New Salem and Noble township will celebrate the Republican victory and the election of John O. Williams to the office of county Treasurer tonight in New Salem. The Republicans also elected a complete township ticket in this township and the celebration, while in a measure in honor of Mr. Williams, will also be for the rest of the ticket.

Red fire, speech making and a general good time are on the program at the celebration. It has been several years since Noble township has had a county office and as this is one of the strongest Republican townships in the county the people were determined to celebrate. A band has been secured and the entire township will turn out to honor Mr. Williams. Several from this city will attend the celebration.

DEMOCRATS GAIN AS VOTES COME IN

Shively's Plurality Mounts to 57,- 064 With 140 Precincts Unheard Of.

MILLER DOUBLES BEVERIDGE

(By United Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 5.—Returns from 2,931 out of 3,171 precincts in Indiana this afternoon gave Senator Shively a plurality of 57,064 and Homer Cook a plurality of 28,282, with the pluralities increasing. The vote stood: Shively, 263,493; Miller, 196,429; Beveridge, 93,199.

Returns from 2,682 precincts show the following for secretary of state: Cook, 227,245; Jackson, 198,963; Pierson, 82,901.

WOMEN GOLFERS GET CHANCE.

Lakewood, N. J., Nov. 5.—For the first time in its history Lakewood will have a golf tournament for women, following the annual fall match play which begins today. The women players will contest for three days beginning on November 11. Special prizes have been offered.

SIX KILLED IN NEW YORK FIRE

Dozen Firemen Are Also Injured Today in Spectacular Blaze at Lodging House

52 MEN PACKED IN PLACE

All But Six Whose Bodies Were Burned to Crisp Beyond Recognition Are Rescued

(By United Press.)
New York, Nov. 5.—Six men were killed and a dozen firemen injured in a spectacular fire which destroyed a four story lodging house at 352 Eighth Avenue early today. There were 52 men packed in the lodging house stalls when the fire broke out and forty of them were rescued by being carried down ladders or strung across to the roofs of adjoining buildings. The cause of the fire has not been definitely determined but the firemen believe it may have been caused by an explosion of naphtha as they learned the proprietor of the house had been cleaning beds with this product. The blaze started in a back room which was quickly burned out. The flames then spread to the stairway, cutting off the escape of those trapped in the building.

Firemen rushed to the second and third floors and beating their way through the flames when there was a terrific explosion. Furniture was blown clear out of the windows and a dozen fire fighters were knocked down, bruised and seriously burned.

Three lodgers were found dead in their beds on the fourth floor of the building. Two were found on the third and another near a window on the same floor. The last named had evidently been able to struggle to the window through the flames only to fall suffocated. All six bodies were so badly charred that identification was impossible.

GREATER RICHMOND NOW.

(By United Press.)
Richmond, Va., Nov. 5.—This capital of the "old south" today became Greater Richmond by annexation of adjacent Henric county and the city limits were extended and the prefix of "Greater" will hereafter be used by all boosting commercial organizations.

FAMOUS SPEAKERS.

(By United Press.)
Milwaukee, Nov. 5.—Jane Adams, Prof. Hugo Muensterberg, of Harvard, President C. R. Van Hise of Wisconsin University, David N. Snedden, commissioner of education for Massachusetts and several other prominent educators of the country are on the program to speak before the teachers of Wisconsin here during the three days convention which opened today. Nearly 7,000 teachers are here for the meeting.

With Friends

When the manufacturer's advertisement appears in the newspaper it is "among friends."

The local advertisers are personally known to many of the readers.

Their stores are familiar, their advertising an old stand-by.

The new advertiser gets the benefit of being in this good company. Like the new member he gets all the prestige of the lodge.

It is only one of many reasons why newspaper advertising is so effective to the national advertiser.

If a Merchant Offers a Cut Price

on any article of merchandise he has to sell. One of two things has happened—He has either lost confidence in his own judgment and is afraid his ware will not sell at the price he placed on it, or he is playing you, Mr. Buyer, for an easy mark and is simply using cut price advertising for bait and if you are a fish and like the bait, he is going to land you. If a merchant puts an honest profit on what he has to sell when he first offers it for sale, it will remove all temptations to cut prices. Wouldn't you rather buy what you need from the man that has one price and especially when that price is lower than the cut prices of his competitors, and you don't have to wait until a sale day to get what you want. If you want to trade where you pay the same price every day in the year and where you don't pay any more any time than the other fellow, we want to sell you your buggies. And as to the styles, we have all the new ones in storm buggies there are on any market, but you know where the styles all originate. Remember, we sold Colonial styles two years ago. We have found better things now. Take a look—then you will know.

POWER OF COTTON

It Reaches All People and Round the Whole World.

MAN'S MASTER AND SERVANT.

This Staple Is the Basis of High Explosives and Smokeless Powder and Without It Not a Modern Big Gun Could Be Fired—Its Numerous Uses.

Cotton reaches all around the world and is the master and the servant of all the people. Without cotton not a modern gun could be fired. Cotton is the basis of high explosives and of smokeless powder, and the warship carries relatively more cotton than was used by the frigate of a century ago with all its sails. The Hottentot spreads a film of cotton cloth across a few poles to keep out the sun's heat. The arctic explorer pads his duck suit with cotton and finds it warmer and lighter than fur.

It is evident, therefore, that cotton touches all the world, and its uses are manifold. Clothing is only one of the many points of contact. Did you ever comb your hair with a cotton comb? Yes you did, for celluloid is nothing but cotton treated with acids. All those useful celluloid things would be unheard of it were not for cotton.

Cotton even has its uses in the automobile. Some of those soft cushions are cotton felt covered with more cotton that looks like leather. Without cotton there could be no great office buildings, for fireproofing would be impracticable. Besides, it would be too expensive to get the cement to the spot without the bags that consume 180,000,000 yards of cotton cloth every year. C. T. Revere, the cotton expert, has drawn up some interesting figures regarding the use of cotton which are drawn upon here.

Light your pipe and think them over, but as the smoke rolls up to the enameled ceiling remember that the foundation of that enamel is cotton and that one single company requires a million yards of cotton cloth to shade tobacco plants growing in Cuba and Florida and 4,000,000 yards for the little bags in which that same tobacco goes to the consumer.

The ordinary citizen thinks only of sheets and pillow cases and dress goods when one speaks of cotton, but such things are relatively unimportant compared with the vast consumption of cotton for other purposes. The railroads and trolley lines of the United States use more than 250,000 bales of cotton a year for enameled ceilings, plush chairs, leather seats and air-brake hose. The automobile consumes about 400,000 bales a year. Most of it goes into the cotton duck basis, which is the essential feature of the tires, and the rest goes largely for cushions and seats.

The largest individual contract for cotton goods in the world is the one placed annually by the greatest of the harvester machine companies. It calls for millions of yards of cotton duck, the consumption for the entire harvesting machine industry being estimated at above 50,000,000 yards of duck yearly. In normal times the New York market alone consumes 400,000 pounds of yarn weekly for the electrical industry. It is necessary for insulation.

Cotton bags have displaced barrels to a great extent, and a few days ago one of the greatest sugar companies announced that in the future cotton bags would be used exclusively. With cotton at 15 cents a pound, bags are cheaper than barrels. It takes about 15,000,000 yards of cotton duck annually for coal bags for delivering the coal where a chute cannot be employed. Cotton duck is used extensively for ventilating chutes in coal mines. Tar-paulins have replaced other covers for flat cars, vans and wagons. In South Africa the cotton blanket has driven out the woolen one.

Fully 20,000,000 yards annually of cotton duck are consumed in the Canadian northwest for overcoats, replacing fur. With a padding of cotton between layers of duck, these garments are lighter and warmer than fur. Cotton cloth has taken the place of wall paper in thousands of modern houses. Buckram, made of cotton, covers books. Pottery establishments use millions of yards of army duck annually for squeezing water out of clay. The government uses 4,000,000 yards of cotton duck per year for coin bags. It takes 2,000,000 yards of cotton duck annually to make feed bags to hang over the noses of horses. Duck is used for filtering oils—millions of yards of it every year.

It takes more than 50,000,000 yards every year of cotton ducking for rubber belting and rubber hose. The same substance is used for stiffening the gauntlets of gloves and leggings, tennis and gymnasium shoes, canopies for shower baths, where rubber formerly was used, and the covering of trunks and telescopes. About 4,000,000 yards annually are used for draining mines. Wood pulp paper mills and other paper mills use cotton duck for driers. Cotton drills and duck to the extent of millions of yards annually are used for wagon tops, cushions and waterproof coats. Mattresses of cotton felt rival hair mattresses.

This is the age of cotton. The world has achieved its greatest progress since Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin. Eliminate cotton and the mere stoppage of spindles and looms would be but a trifle compared with the paralysis that would visit countless other industries.

Unless a man works he cannot find what he is able to do.—Hawthorne.

NAMING A BATTLE.

Opposing Armies Do Not Always Give It the Same Designation.

Many of the world's most famous battles have two names. Thus the battle of Waterloo is known by that name only among English speaking peoples. The French call it the battle of La Belle Alliance. The battle that decided the war between Prussia and Austria in 1866 is known among the Germans as the battle of Sadowa, but the Austrians call it the battle of Koenigsgratz. In the war of 1870, between Germany and France, the great engagement that the Germans call the battle of Gravelotte is spoken of by the French as the battle of St. Privat.

The same thing was common in our civil war. The battle that is known in the north as the battle of Bull Run would not be recognized by most southerners under that name. In the south it is invariably called the battle of Manassas. So the battle that the Federal generals called the battle of Pittsburg Landing was by the Confederates called the battle of Shiloh. Antietam is called in the south the battle of Sharpsburg. The writer, a southerner, whose father was a Confederate officer, was twenty years old before he ever heard of the battle of Antietam, although he was familiar with all the details of the battle of Sharpsburg.

The reason for this is that the opposing armies always name the battle from some prominent geographical landmark, and as they look at the field from different points of view they naturally settle on different names. Thus, at Waterloo, the battle took its English name from the little village where Wellington made his final headquarters and whence he sent to England the first dispatch that announced his victory. So in 1866 the headquarters of the Prussian army was near the village of Sadowa, whereas that of the Austrians was near the village of Koenigsgratz. At Gravelotte the little village of that name was an important point in the German lines. On the side of the French the hamlet of St. Privat was the key to their battle formation. As long as they held that they were invincible, but when the Germans assailed it in the rear and drove them out the day was lost.—Youth's Companion.

OUR MEDAL OF HONOR.

More Difficult to Win Than Any Foreign Military Decoration.

Americans of average information know about the Victoria Cross, the Iron Cross, the Cross of the Legion of Honor. These are rewards of heroism which would mark a man above his fellows even in this foreign land.

But how many Americans know what a medal of honor is?

How many Americans know that the modest American soldiers who wear the medal of honor wear a decoration that is among the rarest and most difficult to win among military honors?

The Cross of the Legion of Honor, established by Napoleon in 1802, while founded to signalize deeds of special daring in war, was after given freely for civil distinctions. Nearly 40,000 German soldiers were decorated with the Iron Cross in the seven months of the Franco-Prussian war, while in the more than half century since the creation of our honor roll only 3,088 have been granted, and of these nearly 900 were given under a mistaken reading of the law.

The holder of the medal of honor must have "distinguished himself conspicuously by gallantry and intrepidity, at the risk of his life, beyond the call of duty." This standard, which bars out action, however brave, in the course of duty and includes only acts of daring which a man might refuse or avoid without rebuke is said to be unequalled.—Chicago Tribune.

Bismarck's Story on Eloquence.

Bismarck once warned the reichstag against eloquence. He told a story of old Frederick William I., who listened to two lawyers on opposite sides of a question. Each of them convinced Frederick William that he was right, whereas the old king "fell into such a furious passion with the effects of eloquence that both orators got into serious trouble through the very excellence of their persuasive powers."—Kansas City Times.

Boil Glass Dishes.

Glass dishes and vessels of all kinds may be rendered less liable to break if before being used they are put into boiling water to which salt has been added. Put the water, when cold, into a large pan, add the salt, put in the glass vessels and bring the water slowly to the boil. Let it boil for a few minutes, take the pan off the fire and leave the glasses in the water until it is cold.

One of the highest compliments paid to the World Famous Williams Colored Singers is, that they always receive requests for return engagements, and, often return year after year, to the same cities and sing to increased business each year.

In announcing the third annual engagement, the manager of one of the large permanent Chautauquas states: "We have never had such demands for the return of a Company."

This great Company will positively appear at the U. P. church for one night, Wednesday evening, Nov. 11.

DRAGON FLIES AT SEA.

The Puzzle That Came With Them and a Squall Later On.

In describing a voyage from Hong-kong to Shanghai some years ago Admiral Fitzgerald relates in his book, "Memories of the Sea," a peculiar experience:

"One afternoon when we were lying at anchor out of sight of land, the weather being very close and sultry, we saw a great cloud approaching the ship from the direction of the shore, which was about fifty miles off. The cloud came slowly nearer and nearer. It did not look like rain, and presently, as it enveloped the ship, we found it was composed of dragon flies, and very big ones. They evidently made for the ship to get a resting place, but many missed and fell exhausted in the calm sea.

"The masts, the yards, the rigging and all the ropes in the ship were in crusted with them. It was a very sultry evening, and about 6 o'clock we all bathed. I remember the strange experience of diving into a sea of dragon flies, which stuck to our arms and shoulders, got into our hair and quite spoiled our swim. A light air then came off from the land, so we weighed anchor and made sail to the southward, and at midnight, just as the watch was changing, we were struck by a terrific squall, which laid the old ship nearly on her beam ends.

"We wondered whether the visitation of dragon flies was connected in any way with the squall. But if they were blown fifty miles off the land, where they certainly did not want to go, why did we not get the wind for six hours afterward?"

Belated Discovery.

"So you finally proposed?" said his chum.

"Well, to tell the truth," returned the thoughtful youth, "I really didn't know that I proposed, but she accepted me, so I guess that settles it. I tell you this language of ours is not to be used lightly."

Fashionable Penmanship.

"Looks like a futile transaction all round."

"What are you kicking about now?"

"This fad for large handwriting. My daughter got a box of expensive paper from a young man and used it all up writing him a note of thanks."—Judge.

Miss Fanny Lois Gregg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Gregg, of Seventh street, and Erle Hamilton of Decatur county, were married yesterday afternoon at two o'clock in the presence of fifty guests at the bride's parents' home. The ring ceremony was used and the Rev. V. W. Tevis was the minister.

The bride was dressed in a wedding gown of white crepe de chine, trimmed in lace and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses. The color scheme in the artistically decorated house was pink and white. Miss Louise Craig played the wedding march and played wedding music during the ceremony. A two course dinner was served. The bride received many beautiful and costly gifts.

Only members of the two families and a few friends of the bride and bridegroom were present. The guests from out of the city included: Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hamilton, parents of the bridegroom, and their daughter, Miss Isabelle Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton and daughter Lillian; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hamilton; the Misses Edith and Amanda Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. Will Robinson and daughter Mary and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Throp, all of Decatur county; Boyd Bonner of Greensburg; Mrs. Haines of Chicago; Mrs. James Cowger, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. P. J. Cowger, all of Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton left yesterday afternoon for Columbus, Ohio, and today expected to go on to Zanesville, O., for a wedding trip. They will be at home in Decatur county on Greensburg, R. R. No. 10, after December 15.

Miss Caroline Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Len Ward of Jackson township, is rapidly recovering from a serious operation which she underwent at the sanatorium here a few weeks ago.

Donald Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Myers is suffering from a fall sustained last week.

Waiting For Them.

The Republican party has proved by the election just held that it is the party which will fight the future battles with the Democratic party. There is no place for a third party in the nation, as Republicans have long contended, but there were Progressives who stuck to their party in the belief that it would come back as strong this year as it was two years ago.

The Republican party is now awaiting the return of those Progressives who left two years ago and still held out this year. They can not but understand now that the Progressive party has served its purpose and that it can not expect to be a dominating factor in any future election. The Progressives made their last stand this year, but the fight was rather hopeless in view of the fact that the issues were clearly drawn between the Republican and Democratic parties and there was no place for the Progressive party to stand.

The tariff question will ever be the real, live, vital issue in this county. It has been proved over and over again that free trade, or if you prefer, tariff for revenue only, is disastrous to this nation. It has been under the protective policy that this nation has thrived and has grown to be the wonder and admiration of the entire world.

The Progressives are protectionists. They stand for the same things as the Republican party in the nation. Now that the Republican party has proved that it is a real and vital factor in national elections and now that the Progressive vote has diminished generally to such an extent that the party is not much longer a factor to be reckoned with, the Progressives can not help but see one course to pursue in the future.

The Republicans were victorious elsewhere in the sixth district. Their big gains in other counties prove that it was in reality a Republican landslide and that the victory in Rush county was not just a "happenso." When Progressive Wayne county, where everything was Progressive two years ago and where even this year the Progressive candidate for congress had a plurality over Gray, elects five Republican

MRS. MABEN WAS MADE WELL

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Wants Other Suffering Women To Know It.

Murfreesboro, Tenn. — "I have wanted to write to you for a long time to tell you what your wonderful remedies have done for me. I was a sufferer from female weakness and displacement and I would have such tired, worn out feelings, sick headaches and dizzy spells. Doctors did me no good so I tried the Lydia E. Pinkham Remedies — Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash. I am now well and strong and can do all my own work. I owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and want other suffering women to know about it." — Mrs. H. E. MABEN, 211 S. Spring, St., Murfreesboro, Tenn.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for nearly forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Why Lose Hope. No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

candidates for congress had a plurality over Gray, elects five Republican candidates on the Republican ticket, then you may know that there was a Republican victory.

Many Progressives in Rush county, who stayed with the party through this election, have, since the vote began coming in, declared that they now realize the Progressive party made its last fight and lost and that they are now ready to return to the Republican party. The question which caused the disturbance in the Republican national convention in 1912 has been righted the reduction of the southern representation, and the Progressives can find no cause for complaint.

The Democrats of Franklin, Union and Fayette county joined hands and administered the stinging defeat to Judge George Gray that he had coming. The Republicans selected a sterling young man to run against Judge Gray, a man on which the Republicans, Progressives and Democrats could easily join to oust from the bench of the judicial circuit such a man as George Gray has been shown to be.

The Democrats still have a majority in congress. They have still another two years to prove that their policies are right. Then the question will be fought out at the election two years hence. The national administration says that it expects a big business boom now. The conditions are all against such a thing. But the fact still remains that the Democrats have another chance.

Henry county elected the whole Republican ticket Tuesday, thereby placing the good, old Republican county back in the column where it belongs.

Nothing could budge the kind of pluralities the Democrats pile up down in Shelby county.

HALF OF JERSEY'S CONVICTS STUDYING

Over Forty Per Cent. of Prison's Population at Trenton Enrolls in Night School.

IT IS UNIQUE IN THAT STATE

(By United Press.)

Trenton, Nov. 5.—New Jersey's prison night school for convicts has again opened at the penitentiary here and the popularity of this feature of the prison's life is attested by the fact that over forty per cent. of its population has enrolled for the fall and winter courses of study, according to figures given out today.

This school is unique in state. In its convict pupils are represented practically every offense known to students of criminology. The scale runs from murder down to petty larceny. While the principal aim of the night school is to fit the convict for better things when he has served his sentence and is released from the gray walls of the institution, it is interesting to note that "life timers," who are lacking in educational attainments, are as eager to study as the man with the sentence of one year.

New Jersey's prison school was established in 1905 mainly through the energy of the Rev. Father Aloys M. Fish then one of the prison's chaplains, whose experience as a student of convicts through many years' association with the prison convinced him of its usefulness as a the educational department at the means of reformation. The head of institution, Edward C. Lanning, has many testimonials from former "pupils," who are now out in the world earning an honest livelihood bearing proof of the world and efficiency of the prison school.

Prizes For Success In Law Greater In New York Than Anywhere

By WILLIAM TRAVERS JEROME

THE young lawyer getting his start in New York is under a great handicap. In a big firm his identity is lost. He is sidetracked into some particular department and is seldom brought into touch with the partners. Long before he has been considered as a coming member of the firm he has grown discouraged. If he starts out for himself he has a LONG WAIT FOR CLIENTS in New York. It would be different in a small town. There he would be acquainted with the small dealer; there the bulk of business troubles would come to him. As between a place in a large office and setting up for himself, he has a choice between the devil and the deep sea.

ON THE OTHER HAND, THE PRIZES FOR SUCCESS IN NEW YORK ARE GREATER THAN ANY PLACE IN THE WORLD. IF THE YOUNG LAWYER HAS PERSONALITY AND UNLIMITED ABILITY, IF HE DOES NOT MARRY AND WILL DEVOTE HIMSELF LIKE A SLAVE TO HIS WORK, WITH EARS DEAF TO SOCIAL DISTRACTIONS, IF LUCK IS WITH HIM, THEN HIS SUCCESS SHOULD BE PRACTICALLY ASSURED.

Huerta, In Cups, Talks About Invading United States and Capturing Chicago

By CLARENCE HAY, Son of Former Secretary John Hay

DURING last winter in Mexico City I studied Huerta at close range, having frequent opportunity at the Jockey club and the leading cafes. Whatever may have been Huerta's crimes toward his own people, he was KIND TO AMERICANS.

I REMEMBER THAT ONE SUNDAY MORNING THE MEXICAN LEADER WAS UNDETERMINED WHETHER OR NOT TO GIVE IN TO THE PRESIDENT'S REVISED TAMPICO DEMANDS. SUNDAY, YOU UNDERSTAND, IS THE NATIONAL HOLIDAY, AND THE GENERAL WAS INDULGING. I DON'T INTEND TO SAY THAT HE WAS DRUNK, FOR I HAVE RARELY HEARD OF HIM AS BEING REALLY INTOXICATED. BUT AS THE DAY WENT ON HE HAD WORKED HIMSELF INTO A THOROUGHLY FIGHTING MOOD. HE WAS THEN TALKING ABOUT INVADING THE UNITED STATES AND CAPTURING CHICAGO, WHICH IS ONE OF HIS PET IDEAS WHEN HE IS IN HIS CUPS.

Press Agents of Warring Nations Rival Those in the "Profesh"

BY ALICE ROHE

Rome, Oct. 15. (By Mail to New York)—Press agents for warring nations whose activities would do credit to the strenuous publicity promoters of rival stage celebrities introduce an incredible element of humor into the great European war tragedy.

For years Serbia has been a nation despised by the greater powers. Austria had regarded her with contempt and hate. And the bitter blow Austro-Hungarian pride suffered after the battle of Sabatz when the Serbian press agent became busy resulted in fresh gnashing of Austrian teeth. Following this encounter in which the despised Serbians were triumphant the Serbian press agent, adding insult to injury, sent forth the story that the famous Austrian regimental band had been captured in the battle and had been forced to play Serbian national airs in the cafes at Nish.

No sooner had the humiliating account gained publicity than the Austrian press agent sat down at his desk in Vienna and launched a denial of the story. He declared it was only an invention of the Serbs who had in reality dressed up one of their own bands in Austrian uniforms and marched them from cafe to cafe in a desire to bring ridicule and humiliation upon their superior enemy.

The Austrian press agent was not content, however, with the denial and shortly after the publication of the captured regimental band story the press department of Francis Joseph's dual kingdom sent out a report worthy of an ingenious theatrical publicity promoter.

The great Serbian poet Wukitchivitch said the Austrian press agent has been captured and is being held in prison at Vienna. So impressed with the heroic exploits of the Austrians, and with their national nobility of character had Wukitchivitch become that he could not restrain himself from bursting into song, praising Austria's valor.

The story of the imprisoned Serbian poet inditing poems to the enemy had no sooner been released from the mimeograph than a wild cry arose from the Serbian press headquarters at Nish.

Penrose received 489,346 votes, according to those latest returns as against 252,853 for Pinchot and 251,433 for Palmer, or 504,286 for both. These figures give Penrose a plurality of 236,493.

The same counties, complete and incomplete gave Martin C. Brumbaugh 562,562 and Vance McCormick 423,521 a majority of 139,041 for Brumbaugh, governor-elect.

(By United Press.)

Harrisburgh, Pa., Nov. 5.—Boise Penrose probably received not less than 49 votes to each 51 cast for both of his opponents in the senatorial race in Pennsylvania and there is a possibility that the final figures may show that he was given a slim plurality.

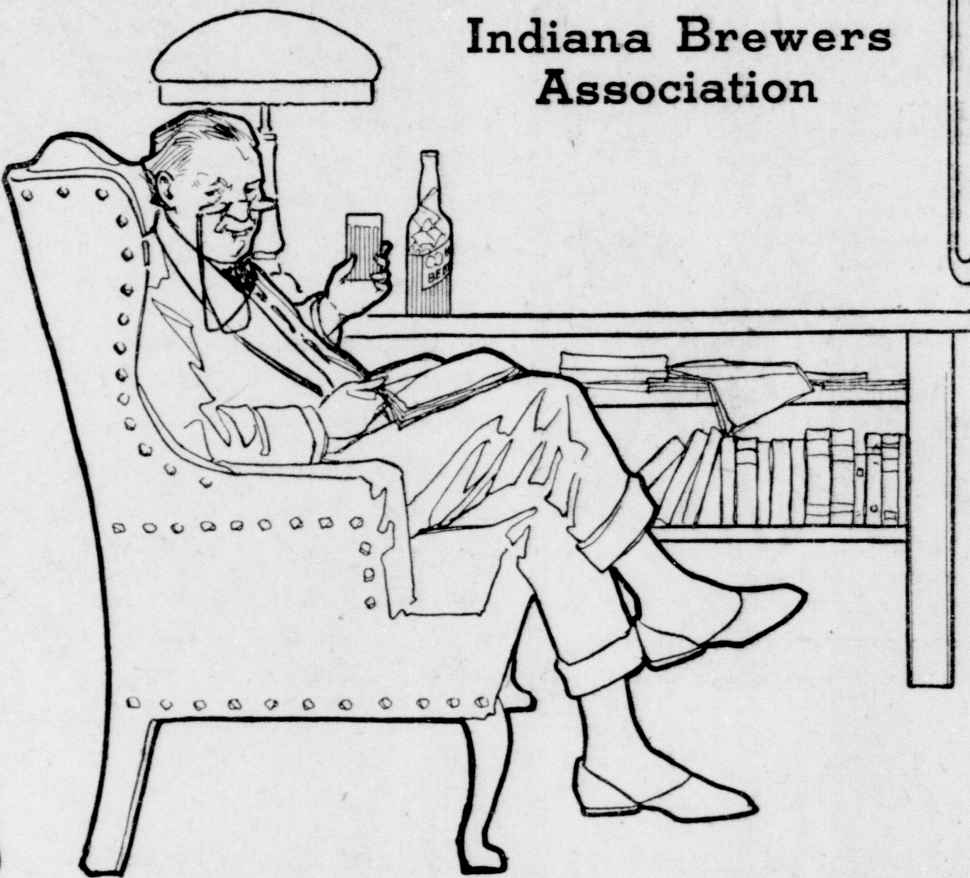

Complete returns from 52 counties and incomplete returns from the remaining fifteen showed today that his plurality was greatly underestimated. They showed also that Pin-

Beer for Refreshing Sleep

Sound sleep is as essential to good health as wholesome food. The business man or mechanic who starts the day's work with the normal amount of refreshing sleep to his credit has a distinct advantage over his sleepless brother.

Beer is a proven producer of restful slumber. It soothes the nerves unstrung by the day's toil. Place your finger on the vibrating string of a musical instrument and notice how quickly it is stilled. Beer will affect your jangling nerves like your finger affected the vibrating string.

A bottle of wholesome beer before retiring will give your brain a chance to rest.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

WINTER DOPE IS FOR BOSTON

Hot Stove League Has the Braves

All Tuned to Cop Second Title Series

HUMAN FOR MACKMEN TO LOSE

Red Sox Came Along Good Last

Season and May be Good for Another Pennant

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

New York, Nov. 5.—The most human thing the Philadelphia Athletics have done in the past couple of years was to take a licking from the Boston Braves. It wasn't a thumping as a result of which doubt might be expressed, but a good sound thrashing, and this means much in the general consideration of what may happen in the American League during the season of 1915.

The winter league outlook is that Boston has an excellent chance of having a corner on the World's Series next year. The spell of the Mackmen has been broken. It does not take any superhuman efforts to turn the trick either—just an aggressive attack with a sting in every blow and a defense that refuses to admit it is punctured. The Boston Braves showed that in a series lasting four games. Over a stretch of 154 games the wallop of the Athletics must, of course, assert itself to more effect, but the threatening gestures against Connie Mack's grabbing another pennant are coming from Boston, just as the threats and then the wallop came from that direction for McGraw and the Giants in the National League this year.

The Athletics gave no indication of being broken and on the down grade in the clashes with the Braves for the world's championship, but the Boston Red Sox give every indication of having again rallied after their glide down the chutes which followed their copping of the world's title two years ago. As a wind-up they beat the Athletics carried them within striking distance of the leaders, but the sprint was timed too late. With the pounding handed out by the Braves, Boston teams took the Athletics into camp on thirteen swinging along with a fair amount of precision and in a manner that might almost suggest collusion. The Mackmen have not hit the bumps yet, but wether the great machine may waver if pressed sufficiently next year ought to serve for a matter of debate during the long cold spell ahead.

The Red Sox have all that could be desired in the pitching line. Their infield was trengthened when Hoblitzel was planted at first and now compares favorably with the best of them. Nothing is lacking in the outfield and Tris Speaker stands out as the particular terror in the attack. As good as Clark Griffith's Washington collection looked during last year's winter session they failed to put the expected dent in proceedings. They kept themselves in the fight, but their threats were never dangerous. Walter Johnson was nicked with more regularity than usual, which speaks volumes. Had Johnson breezed through, with as big a year as he showed for 1913, Washington would have been dangerous proposition. Next year the great speed merchant should swing back again.

Hughey Jennings had yet to whip his Detroit Tigers into the speed necessary to carry them to a position of real contenders since his unhorsing after the string of triple victories. What with the thumping of butcher boys and other pastimes of Ty Cobb, Jennings has difficulty keeping this main-spring of his offense on the firing line in a manner that would assure a constant hammering with full strength. In case of a grand scramble among the four leading clubs the Tigers should cut a big figure in 1915 however.

The remaining four clubs of the Johnson circuit are more or less colorless. The White Sox have cantered along with about the same gait and the same brand of ball. The Cleveland Naps broke all records for ability to sink so deep that there was no chance of any one getting beneath them. While a long string of automobiles stood outside the ball park, the owners of the cars romped care-free and spiritless on the field in taking their daily licking. The St. Louis Browns have revived from the Browns of a couple of years back and carried their fight along with much gusto for a time, and will offer a scrap on most any old occasion. The power has been lacking there, however.

A regular manager must be picked for the New York Yanks before the season opens. Roger Peckinpaugh did the piloting during the latter games of this year after Frank Chance packed his belongings and fled. Some believe Roger may be given an opportunity to continue his job during next season. Under present conditions Peck is welcome to the task. The Yanks are burdened with quantities of material that would go toward making a strong minor league team, and larger quantities of opinion from a strategy board that doesn't know how to "strategy."

They are afflicted with "inside baseball" of the brand that does not appear on the field, but comes from a source sadly lacking in baseball brains. One of the favorite pastimes in New York is selling the Yanks and it begins to look as though Ben Johnson may have to make a housecleaning about this club as President Tener did in ousting a certain pompous person from the Cubs.

SEASON WILL BE OPENED FRIDAY

GOOD AGGREGATION HERE

The Rushville high school basketball team will open the season Friday night, taking on the Milroy high school team at the local gym. The Rushville team expects to start the season off with a win but a good game is assured as the Milroy team has been in training longer than Rushville.

The team this year is being coached by R. W. Burns, instructor in mathematics, and he believes the team will make a better showing than in the last few years. The material is not very plentiful but is considered very good. A large crowd is expected for the opening game, which will start at seven-thirty o'clock. The team will lineup as follows: Martin, center; Titsworth and Stoops forwards; Brecheisen, Winslow and Hutchinson, guards.

(By United Press.)

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 3.—A campaign throughout Minnesota to use sanitary drinking cups today gave promise of bringing results—not a lessening of germs, but an increase of the love bug. A patient of the state sanitarium for tubercular residents, at Walker, read a note on a sanitary drinking cup. It was signed Evelyn Ellison, East Wapole, Mass. He wrote, His comrades are still looking for the answer.

Indiana Red Cross Seals Commission Calls Attention to This Amid Thoughts of War.

FINE TO HELP STRICKEN ONES

In Indiana People Are Face to Face With Menace That Strikes Terror to the Hearts.

"It is natural that the humanitarian instincts of the civilized world should be aroused by the untold suffering caused by the devastating war in Europe," reads a statement issued today from the headquarters of the Indiana Red Cross Seals Commission. "Yet in the rush to equip Christmas ships and to do other helpful things for the thousands of stricken families in foreign lands, we must not forget that our first duty is to our neighbors here at home.

"In Indiana we are face to face with a menace that strikes terror into the hearts of thousands of brave men and beautiful women not to forget the living death which confronts an army of boys and girls. We are confronted with the spectacle of 4,108 coffins, filled in the past twelve months with fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters, stricken down by a plague which is just as deadly as the plague now sweeping the battlefields of Europe.

"We know that this plague is preventable. We know that to fight it as it should be fought, we must have ample funds. We are engaged in a campaign to raise this money through the sale of Red Cross seals. No one is so poor that he cannot buy a Red Cross seal because they cost only one cent each.

"Every cent, obtained through the sale of these cheery little Christmas stickers, which bear the insignia of the American Red Cross is used in the fight against tuberculosis. Ninety per cent of the money thus received in this state, will remain in Ind. to be expended in the crusade against the 'white plague.' The use of Red Cross seals during the holiday season has become an institution. This year the sale should be doubled. Every piece of mail handled in Indiana postoffices beginning with Thanksgiving, should bear a Red Cross seal. If this is done the money thus realized, will be sufficient to do effective work all of 1915."

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring color, lustre and thickness to hair when faded, streaked or gray.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggy, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

CHAPTER XV.

The Masked Voice.

For a matter of twelve hours the fog, leaden, dank, viscous, as inextinguishable as the dominion of evil, had wrapped the world in an embrace as foul and noxious as the coils of some great, gray, slimy serpent.

Through its sluggish folds the ponderous, power-impelled lifeboat crept at a snail's pace, its stem parting and wringing back from either flank a heavy-hearted sea of gray.

In the bows a young woman rested in a state of semi-exhaustion, her eyes closed, her head pillowed on a cork-belt life-preserver, her sodden garments modeled closely to the slender body that was ever and again shaken from head to foot with the strength of a long, shuddering respiration.

Seated on the nearest thwart, Alan Law, chin in hand, watched over the rest of this woman whom he loved with a grimly hopeless solicitude. He was in no happier case than she, so far as physical comfort went—he was in worse, since he might not rest.

Premontion of misfortune darkened his heart with its impenetrable shadow.

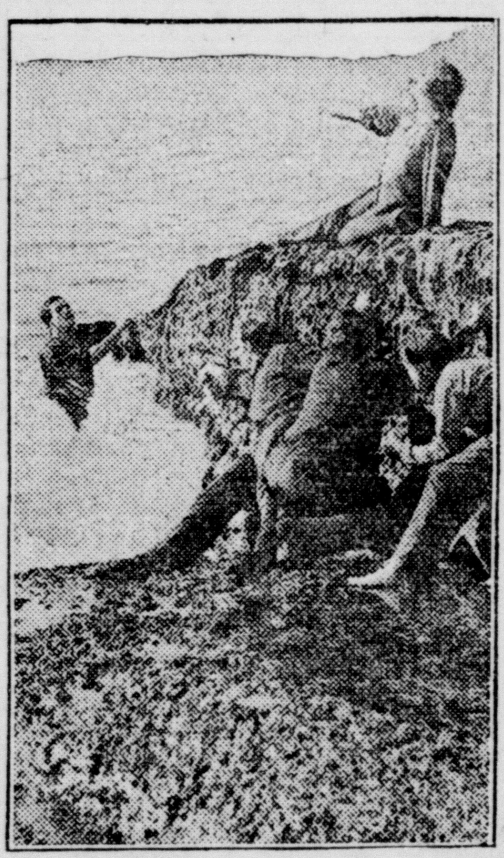

In the stern Tom Barcus presided morosely over the steering gear; and Law was no more jealously heedful of his sweetheart than Barcus of the heavy-duty motor that chugged away so purposefully at its business of driving the boat heaven-knew-where.

Lacking at once a compass, all notion whatsoever of the sun's bearings, and any immediate hope of the fog lifting or chance bringing them either to land or to rescue by some larger and less comfortless craft, Barcus steered mainly through force of habit—the salt-water man's instinctive feeling that no boat under way should ever in any conceivable circumstance be without a hand at the helm. It had seemed impossible that it could long escape repetition of the disaster, but somehow, it always did escape, and that by a wide margin; never once had it passed near enough to another vessel to see it.

And now for more than an hour the silence had been uncannily constant, broken only by the rumble of the motor, the muted hiss of water slipping down the side, the suck and gurgle of the wake.

Forebodings no less portentous than Law's crawled in the mind of Barcus. It was as likely as not that the lifeboat was traveling straight out to sea. And gasoline tanks can and oftentimes do become as empty as an official weather prophet's promise of fair weather for a holiday.

More than this, Mr. Barcus was a confirmed skeptic in respect of marine motors; on terms of long and intimate experience with the ways of the demon of perversity that tenants them one and all, he knew that the present sweet-tempered performance of the exhibit under consideration was no earnest whatsoever of future good behavior, that when such a complicated contraption was concerned there was never any telling.

Delivered Into the Hands of the Enemy.

In view of all of which considerations he presently threw open the battery switch.

And the aching void created in the silence by the cessation of that uniform drone was startling enough to rouse even Rose Trine from her state of semi-somnolence.

With a look of panic she sat up, thrust damp hair back from her eyes, and nervously inquired:

"What's the matter?"

"Nothing," Barcus told her, "I shut the engine off—that's all."

Tempers were short in that hour, and Alan was annoyed to think that the rest of his beloved should needlessly have been disturbed.

"What did you do that for?" he demanded sharply.

"Because I jolly well wanted to," Barcus returned in a tone as brusque.

"Oh, you did—eh?"

"Yes, I did—eh! I happen to be bossing this end of the boat and to have sense enough to realize there's no sense at all in our wasting fuel the way we are—cruising nowhere!"

"Well," Law contended, struck by the fairness of this argument, but unable to calm his uneasiness—"just the same, we might—"

"Yes; of course, we might," Barcus snapped. "We might a whole lot. We might, for instance, be heading for Spain, for all you or I know to the contrary. And in such case, I for one respectfully prefer to have gas enough to take us home again if ever this day-blessed fog lifts!"

And for several seconds longer the stillness strangled their spirits in its ruthless grasp.

Then of a sudden a cry shrilled through the fog, so near at hand that it seemed scarcely more distant than over the side:

"Aho! Help! Aho! Help! Help!"

So insistent, so urgent was its accent that, coupled with the surprise, it brought the three as one to their feet, all a-tremble, their eyes seeking one another's faces, then shifting uneasily away.

"What can it be?" Rose whispered, agitated, shrinking into Alan's ready arm.

"A woman," Barcus put in harshly. "Judith," the girl moaned.

Alan shook himself together. "Impossible!" he contended. "I saw her go down . . ."

"That doesn't prove she didn't come up," Barcus commented acidly.

"Aho! Motorboat aho-o-o! Help!"

"And that," Barcus pursued sadly, "just proves she did come up—blame the luck! Alive she is, and kicking; stand clear. An able-bodied pair of lungs was back of that hail, my friend; and you needn't tell me I don't know the dulcet accents of that angelic contralto!"

Without heeding him, Alan cupped hands to mouth and sent an answering cry ringing through the murk:

"Aho! Where are you? Where away?"

"Here—on the reef—half-drowned—perishing with chill!"

"How does my voice bear?" Alan called back.

"What the dickens do you care?" Barcus interpolated suspiciously.

"To port," the response rang through the fog. "Starboard your helm and come in slowly!"

"Right-o! Half a minute!" Alan replied reassuringly.

"Like hell!" Mr. Barcus muttered in his throat as he jumped down into the engine pit and bent over the fly-wheel.

Leaping on the forward thwart and balancing himself perilously near the gunwale, Alan strained his vision vainly against the opacity of the fog.

"Can't make out anything," he grumbled, looking back. "Start her up—but slow's the word—and 'ware reef!"

"Nothing doing," Barcus retorted curtly. "The motto is now 'Full speed astern!' as you must know."

"O come! We can't leave a woman out there—in a fix like that!"

"Can't we? You watch!" Barcus grunted malevolently, rocking the heavy flywheel with all his might; for the motor had turned suddenly stubborn.

"Alan!" Rose pleaded, laying a hand upon his sleeve. "Think what it means! I know it sounds heartless of me—and it's my own sister. But you know how mad she is—wild with hatred and jealousy. If you take her into this boat, it's your life or hers!"

"If we leave her out there," Alan retorted, shaking his arm impatiently free, "it's her life on our heads!"

At this juncture the motor took charge of the argument, ending it in summary fashion. With a smart explosion in the cylinder, it started up unexpectedly, at one and the same time almost dislocating the arm of Mr. Barcus and precipitating Alan overboard.

It was not given him to know what was happening until he found himself in the water; he struggled to the surface just in time to see the bows of the lifeboat back away and vanish into the mist.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Island.

Not more than twenty seconds could have elapsed before Barcus recovered from the shock of the motor's treachery sufficiently to reverse the wheel, throttle down the carburetor and jump out of the engine-pit.

But in that small space of time the lifeboat and Alan Law had parted company as definitely as though one of them had been levitated bodily to the far side of the earth.

It could not have been more than a minute after the accident before Barcus was guiding the boat over what, going on his sense of location and judgment of distance, he could have sworn was the precise spot where Alan had disappeared, but without discovering a sign of him.

And for the next twenty minutes

he divided his attention between attempts to soothe and reassure the half-distracted girl and efforts to elude a reply from Alan by stentorian hailing—with as little success in the one as in the other.

"Alan!" he shrieked at the top of his lungs. "Alan! Give a hail to tell us you're safe!"

There was a little pause; he was racking his brains for some more moving mode of appeal when the answer came in another voice—in the voice of Judith Trine, clear, musical, effervescent with sardonic humor:

"Be at peace, little one—bleat no more! Mr. Law is with us—and safe—oh, quite, quite safe!"

In dumb consternation Barcus sought the countenance of Rose. Her eyes, meeting his, were blank with despair. He shook his head helplessly and let his hands dangle idly between his knees.

With no way on her, the lifeboat drifted with a current of unknown set and strength.

"What can we do?" Rose implored. "We must do something. We can't leave him . . . Oh, when I think of him there, in her hands, I could go mad!"

"If only I knew," Barcus protested; "but my hands are tied, my wits are as helpless as my eyes are blind. There's nothing to go by—except the bare possibility that the reef she spoke of may be Norton's. It doesn't seem possible, but we may have made that much southing. In that case we're about three miles off the mainland, somewhere in the neighborhood of Katama Island, a little, rocky, desolate bump of earth, inhabited mainly by fishermen."

The girl wrung her hands. "But how could Judith get there—and with her men—and ammunition?"

"Don't ask me. Going on my experience with the lady, I'd be willing to bet that she was picked up by the steamer that ran us down, and proceeded to make a prize of it—or try to. One thing's certain—she must have found or stolen a boat from somebody; they couldn't have made Norton's reef by swimming—it's too far. That's the answer; they were picked up, stole a boat, and piled it up on the reef."

Yanked Him Off to His Cell.

"And there's no hope—!"

"Only of the fog relenting. If we could make the mainland and get help . . ."

His accents died away into a disconsolate silence that was unbroken for upwards of an hour.

So slowly the current bore the lifeboat toward the beach and so still the tide that Barcus never appreciated they were within touch of any land until the bows grounded with a slight jar and a grating sound.

With a cry of incredulity he leaped to his feet—"Land, by all that's lucky!"—and stooping, lent a hand to the girl, aiding her to rise.

Hardly had Rose had time to comprehend what had happened, when Barcus was over the side and wrestling with the bows, dragging the boat farther upon the shoals.

She was, however, more than one man could manage; and when her stem had bitten a little more deeply into the sands, Barcus gave over the attempt and, lifting Rose down, set her on dry land, then climbed back into the vessel, rummaged out her anchor and cable, and carried them ashore, planting the former well up towards the foot of the cliff.

And as he rose from this last labor he was half blinded by the glare of the western sun as it broke through the fog.

In less than five minutes the miraculous commonplace was an accomplished fact; the wind had rolled the fog back like a scroll and sent it spinning far out to sea, while the shore on which the two had landed was deluged with sunlight, bright and beautifully warm.

He showed a thoughtful and considerate countenance to the girl.

"You're about all in?"

She nodded confirmation of this, which was no more than simple truth. "Where are we?" she added.

He made her party to his own perplexity.

"You're not able to travel," he pursued. "Do you mind being left alone while I take a turn up the beach and have a look round? We can't be far from some sort of civilization; even if it's an island there are no desert isles along this coast. I'll find something soon enough, no fear."

By tacit consent both avoided mention of Alan, but each knew what thought was uppermost in the other's mind.

"There's a niche among the rocks up here," Barcus indicated, "almost a cave. You'll be warm and dry enough, and secure from observation overhead. Maybe you can even snatch a few winks of sleep. . . ."

She negatived that suggestion with a weary smile; no sleep for her until sheer exhaustion overpowered her, or she knew of Alan's fate.

And so, reiterating his promise to be gone no longer than absolutely might be needful, he left her there.

Headlong Chase After Dollar Hasn't Killed American Love of Adventure

BY WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMMS
Paris, Oct. 15. (By Mail to New York)—The headlong chase after the Almighty dollar has not killed the American's desire for adventure. Had you gone with me last night and slipped through a line of bayonet-bristled pickets to mess with the foreign legion, you would understand what I mean.

At the regimental canteen I saw at one table, an American doctor, formerly on the staff of the Bellevue hospital, New York; a Wall street clerk; the brother of one of the best known American fiction writers; graduate of Trinity college Hartford, Conn., and a lad from Syracuse. In the regimental kitchen I saw John, a sleek, round-faced American negro presiding over soup pots and sassing the fat Dutch cook who used to be chef on the New Zealand.

These men are privates. They enlisted in the famous foreign legion for different reasons, but adventure was the real lure for all.

The brother of the author left a business worth $50,000 to go into the legion. He confessed that he joined because of an unquenchable desire to do something which was not "business;" he was seeking an antidote for that "tired-business-man" feeling. Today he leaves for the front with 70 pounds on his back and a gun on his shoulder, but happy as a schoolboy. At the Bourse De Commerce he has an office. A stenographer was left there, but his business must mark time until he returns from war.

By the aid of two friendly sergeants I was smuggled into the army canteen and there, surrounded by adventurers from every quarter of the globe—Switzerland, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Turkey and even Japan and China, I had dinner with well-bred men and boys from the United States; men who had led easy, sheltered lives, who had gone to college and held degrees.

Across the table sat Bonnell, the Wall street clerk. He is a college man. His manners are gentle as a girl's. His language is as pure; he never swears. His face reddened under Naive blushes when he talked of himself.

Bonnell's cap was much too small and his coat collar so large that his head seemed ever in danger of disappearing through it. Very tall and very slender, Bonnell's coat was held in folds about him by his belt, for French uniforms are made on only one scale, if a man is six feet two, he should weigh 300 pounds according to Calic standard. Bonnell weighs about half that.

"Why did you enlist?" I asked Bonnell.

"Were I a comedian," he said, facetiously, "I should say because I have always lived in Brooklyn. But I enlisted for the excitement of the thing; to see something."

Dr. Elie Haim, a graduate of the University of New York said he enlisted for an ideal and that is true democracy.

"If I tell you something of myself, perhaps you will understand better," he added. "I was born in Smyrna, Turkey. My father was Portuguese, my mother French. My first schooling was in Constantinople. I took my degree in Paris and then went to the United States. I have always hated autocracy, militarism and tyranny. This war I consider the direct result of the ambitions of one man, the Kaiser, an autocrat, a militarist."

Medical stores are not all they should be in the army. Dr. Haim buys out of his own pocket the medicines he needs for the company, of which he is the doctor and is also in charge of the battalion hospital.

Each man I talked to had some sort of ideal plus a love of adventure. It sounded strange to hear these men talking of culture among the world's most desperate men for it must not be believed that all the soldiers of the foreign legion are of as high a standard as the men from the United States.

Before leaving, I saw John the Black. I asked him why he had joined.

"Gawd knows!" he said, rolling his eyes. "I sho' don't. An' all dis nigger wants ter know right now is how's he gwine t' git out?"

"What I read about de war in de newspapers and what de war really am, am suhtenly two pow'ful diffrent things. Indeed dey is!"

You Make Friends by Recommending a Reliable Kidney Medicine

Your representative called at my door yesterday meaning to leave a sample of your noted Swamp-Root and I am certainly pleased to see anybody connected with the firm who makes a medicine which has done so much for me and my family. A few years ago I was suffering from a terrible pain in my back and when I was up around the house I had to walk with my body bent nearly double. If you had placed a thousand dollars above my head I could not straighten up to get it.

Hearing of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I sent to you for a sample bottle and from the effects of that small amount I was sure it would help me, so I bought one bottle and it has cured me.

Shortly after that my husband who was a coal miner, was suffering from kidney trouble and could not hot work and I sent for some of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. He was in a terrible condition, but as the doctor's had not given me any relief, I had more faith in Swamp-Root, and it was well founded, for it did the work and after taking a few bottles he was completely cured.

I daily recommend the use of Swamp-Root to my friends and neighbors.

Sincerely yours,
MRS. JOHN NORDQUIST,
Galeton, Penna.

Sworn and subscribed to before me, this 14th day of May, 1912.

WILL MAKE FIGHT TO KILL OFF RATS

Lafayette Chamber of Commerce Enlists Services of State Board of Health in Fight.

PREVENTATIVE METHODS

City Complimented Because it is First One to Take up Plan Before Bubonic Plague Comes.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—The Lafayette Chamber of Commerce has enlisted the aid and advice of the state board of health in a fight in which it proposes to exterminate rats in that city. Having learned that rats in Lafayette alone probably cost the city $20,000 annually in provender and large sum for doctor bills, the business men have taken up rat killing as a business proposition and proposes to go about the matter scientifically.

The state board of health replied to the inquiry from Lafayette and gave methods of exterminating the Vermin. It complimented the Chamber of Commerce on its enterprise and characterized Lafayette as the first city in the United States to take up rat extermination as a preventative rather than a cure. Other cities such as San Francisco and New Orleans have taken up rat extermination at great expense to themselves, but only after the bubonic plague had forced them to it.

The health board suggests five steps to be taken in the rat crusade. They are:

- 1.—Let the Chamber of Commerce gather all the facts obtainable concerning rats and methods of destroying them.
- 2.—Create public opinion against the rat so that the presence of one on the premises will be loathed.
- 3.—Let every member of the Chamber of Commerce promise to rid his premises of rats and make the premises rat proof.
- 4.—Abolish all rat-producing conditions such as piles of trash, dilapidated outhouses, piles of garbage, etc.
- 5.—Pass a city ordinance declaring the rat a nuisance and assessing, after a given period, a fine of $5.00 per rat against each property owner on whose premises rats are found.

Dr. J. H. Hurty of the state board of health explained that buildings may be made rat-proof by cementing cracks of the buildings, screening their runways, screening breaks in the foundations, keeping cellar windows closed, liberal use of caustic potash and by keeping rat traps constantly set. Caustic potash, he said, should be bought in large quantities and spread along the walls, thrown into chimneys in walls, and into the rat holes. He said rats would get this on their feet, try to remove it with their mouths and would then die of the sores in their mouths.

Rats cost the United States at least at least $90,000,000 annually said Dr. Hurty. He said this estimate was conservative, and that many thought the cost was twice that amount. California has spent $7,000,000 to rid itself of rats because they spread the bubonic plague, he said, and New Orleans will spend not less than one million dollars for the same purpose. The rats carrying this plague came in ocean ships from Asiatic countries, he said, and there is likelihood that they may come up the Mississippi river to the central west states.

ing equipment will be provided.

LECTURE TOPICS ANNOUNCED TODAY

Mrs. Demarchus Brown of Indianapolis Will Give a Miscellaneous
Here This Winter

FIRST ONE MONDAY NIGHT

The lecture topics for Mrs. Demar-chus Brown of Indianapolis, who will have a class here this winter, were announced today. The lectures will be miscellaneous in character because that was what the class desired.
The first of the ten in the course will be given next Monday evening in the high school assembly room of the Graham school building at seven-thirty o'clock. Every lecture thereafter will be on Friday evening every other week. The price for the ten lectures is $1.50 or twenty-five cents the single admission. Tickets will be on sale at Hargrove & Mullin's drug store. The lecture subjects are as follows:

The Charms of Paris; The French
Chateaux; Southern France, The Land of Romance; Mary, The Queen of the Scots, (illustrated); Hugo, the Giant of French Letters; Zola, the Friend of the Oppressed; A Norway
Cruise, (illustrated); Oscar Wilde,
the Tragic Comedian; English Cathedrals, (illustrated); Tolstoi, the Voice of the East.

ARE NOTIFYING MERCHANTS TODAY

Police Causing Them to Comply With Regulations of That New City Ordinance.

REGARDING DISPLAY SPACE

The police were busy today notifying the merchants of the city to comply with the regulations of a city ordinance that was repealed at a recent meeting, which does away with the three feet in front of their places of business for display purposes.

Under the ordinance as it now stands, the merchants are forbidden to use the sidewalk for displaying goods. This means that all fish stands, racks and other obstructions will have to be taken off the sidewalks. The order while it is being obeyed by the merchants is done so reluctantly.

NATHAN BUSH OF RALEIGH IS DEAD

Expires at His Home at Age of Seventy Years This Morning of Kidney Disease.

GROCEER THERE FOR 6 YEARS

Nathan Bush, 70 years old, a well known resident of Raleigh, died at his home there this morning at six o'clock. Mr. Bush had been ill for over a year suffering from kidney disease. For the past few weeks he had been in a serious condition and death had been expected. Mr Bush had conducted a grocery there for the past six years and prior to this conducted a blacksmith shop.

He is survived by his widow and three brothers, Richard, Robert and Henry Bush. The funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at two o'clock in the Raleigh Christian church by the Rev. M. Rateliff of Connersville and burial will take place in the cemetery there.

Once Gay, Festive Latin Quarter of Paris Now Dreariest of Places

BY WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMMS
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, Oct. 11. (By mail to New York)—The once gay and festive Latin quarter is now in the dreariest section of Paris.

Last night was Saturday night,
the big night along the Boul 'Miche'
as the students love to call the Boulevard St. Michael, the main artery of the quarter, yet as I wandered up and down its lengths I had the creeps. A country church yard at midnight is Coney Island compared to this once happy-go-lucky street.

The hour I chose for my promenade was between 11 and 12 o'clock at night, the hour when ordinarily at this time of the year students are frolicking like lambskins on the green, their arms about each other or then pretty Mimi Pinson sweethearts singing, laughing, shouting remarks to each other, having the time of their young lives; when the cafes are crowded with joyous youths and girls, the one absorbing his becks and cafes creme, the other her hot milk or syrup mixture fighting creditably shy of stronger beverages than coffee and cream when the lights are at their brightest, merriment its fullest; the joy of living at its keenest and insouciance is at its flood-tide.

Everything was different last night.
The tone of the Quarter was sepulchral. Most of the lights were out; the others dimmed; the shops were closed; the restaurants and cafes locked and barred and shuttered. As I walked down the thoroughfare from the Pantheon towards the Seine, keeping to the right hand sidewalk—

The sidewalk, of the "Boul 'Miche'" I met perhaps two score people in the five or six squares from the top of the hill to the bridge spanning the river at Place StMichael. Most of the people were girls, seeking, seeking, seeking, but apparently always in vain. I felt something akin to a shudder pass through me. The darkrobed girls moving noiselessly through the shadows of this once brilliantly lighted street made me think of ghosts haunting some gilded palace of dead and gone ages, seeking vainly for those who used to revel there.

At the bottom of the hill I crossed the way and started back up the street, on the opposite sidewalk.
This was entirely deserted save for a cloaked policeman standing like a lisconsolate spirit deep in the shalows of the trees. No, there was one other living soul on that side of the street—the wrong side of the "boul 'Miche'"—a woman alone and weeping. For me she was the symbol of "The quarter." I did not approach her so I could not swear she was real; today I am half inclined to think that she was not, that she was only a creature of my imagination;
The Spirit of Gloom now Mistress of the Quarter Latin." War has played greater havoc nowhere than here where Youth once had her kingdom.
